Two ETFs that Capture ‘The Harvest Way’

At Harvest ETFs, we have established a reputation for delivering consistent monthly income and strong growth opportunities through our Equity Income ETFs. We have done so with a straightforward investment philosophy: owning high quality businesses with long-term growth prospects combined with a covered call strategy to enhance yield and generate income. That philosophy has delivered stable, consistent income to our unitholders, while giving them exposure to powerful long-term growth trends.

HDIF and HRIF are invested in a basket of primarily Harvest equity income ETFs.

The key difference between HDIF and HRIF is leverage. HDIF applies modest leverage to enhance income while HRIF uses no leverage to limit risk.

Why Canadian Investors Need Income

HDIF and HRIF are designed to help meet the income needs of Canadians. Many traditional income-paying products provide inadequate yields and lack a consistent or reliable schedule. Generating retirement income has become complex for Canadians. Many who have converted their RRSPs to RRIFs find that their income sources do not cover government-mandated drawdowns. Canadian retirees deserve not to worry about income in retirement.

How HDIF and HRIF Generate Their Income

The income mechanics of HDIF and HRIF begin with the ETFs they hold. Each of these ETFs is constructed of 15-30 equally weighted, high-quality, companies that meet stringent financial criteria. Each Harvest Equity Income ETF uses a covered call strategy to sell calls on up to 33% of our positions in these companies. The ETFs held by HDIF & HRIF generate income yields between 7.5% and 10.00% approximately. Income generated by covered calls can be highly tax efficient when used in non-registered plans, as it is generally taxed as capital gains.

Scale Comparison: Holdings vs. S&P TSX Index holdings by Average Market Cap

HDIF and HRIF provide greater scale than the TSX 60 by investing in globally diversified companies with significantly larger market capitalizations, broader growth opportunities, and access to a wider range of sectors—particularly high-growth industries—beyond the Canadian market.

(the "Fund(s)" or "ETF(s)"). Please read the relevant prospectus before investing. The Funds are not guaranteed, their values change frequently and past performance may not be repeated. The indicated rates of return are the historical annual compounded total returns (except for figures of one year or less, which are simple total returns) including changes in unit value and reinvestment of all distributions and do not take into account sales, redemption, distribution or optional charges or income taxes payable by any securityholder that would have reduced returns. Tax, investment and all other decisions should be made with guidance from a qualified professional. The above is for general information purposes only and does not constitute advice or a solicitation to buy or sell the securities referred to within.

Distributions are paid to you in cash unless you request, pursuant to your participation in a distribution reinvestment plan, that they be reinvested into the Class of units that you own of the Fund. If the Fund earns less than the amounts distributed, the difference is a return of capital.

* The current yield represents an annualized amount that is comprised of 12 unchanged monthly distributions (using the most recent month's distribution figure multiplied by 12) as a percentage of the closing market price of the Fund. The current yield does not represent historical returns of the ETF but represents the distribution an investor would receive if the most recent distribution stayed the same going forward.
