This ETF is an alternative mutual fund. It has the ability to invest in asset classes or use investment strategies that are not permitted for other types of mutual funds. The specific features that differentiate this fund from other types of mutual funds include the ability to invest more than 10% of its net asset value in securities of a single issuer, the ability to borrow cash, to short sell beyond the limits prescribed for conventional mutual funds and to employ leverage. While these specific strategies will be used in accordance with the ETF's investment objectives and strategies, during certain market conditions they may accelerate the pace at which your investment decreases in value.

Before you invest, consider how the ETF would work with your other investments and your tolerance for risk.

What does the ETF invest in?

The ETF seeks to provide holders of Class A Units with high monthly cash distributions and the opportunity for capital appreciation by investing, on a levered basis, in a portfolio that will replicate, to the extent reasonably possible, the portfolio of Harvest Balanced Income & Growth ETF (TSX:HBIG) ("HBIG"), an exchange traded mutual fund managed by the Manager.

Leverage will be created through the use of cash borrowings or as otherwise permitted under applicable securities legislation. The aggregate exposure of the ETF to cash borrowing will be approximately 25% of the ETF's net asset value.

HBIG's investment objective is to provide with high monthly cash distributions and the opportunity for capital appreciation by investing, on a non-levered basis, in a portfolio of exchange traded mutual funds that are listed on a recognized North American stock exchange that provide exposure towards large capitalization equity securities, investment grade bonds or money market instruments issued by corporations or governments, and will include exchange traded mutual funds that engage in covered call strategies.

How Risky is it?

The value of the ETF can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge risk is to look at how much the ETF's returns change over time. This is called "volatility".

In general, ETFs with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. ETFs with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk Rating

Harvest has rated the volatility of this ETF as medium.

The rating is based on how much the ETF's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the ETF will be in the future. The rating can change over time. An ETF with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High
-----	---------------	--------	----------------	------

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the ETF's returns, see the "Risk Factors" section of the ETF's prospectus.

No guarantees

ETFs do not have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

How has the ETF performed?

This section tells you how Class A Units of the ETF have performed over the past calendar year, with the returns calculated using the ETF's net asset value (NAV). Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the ETF's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart tells you how Class A Units of the ETF have performed over the past calendar year. The Class A Units of the ETF did not drop in value in the past calendar year. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the ETF has been in the past. It does not tell you how the ETF will perform in the future.

Best and worst 3-month returns

This section shows the best and worst returns for the Class A Units of the ETF in a 3-month period over the past calendar year. The best and worst 3-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	3 months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	5.27%	October 31, 2025	Your investment would rise to $1,053
Worst return	-2.24%	May 31, 2025	Your investment would rise to $978

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in the Class A Units of the ETF since inception would have had $1,192 as of February 28, 2026. This is equal to an annual compounded return of approximately 9.74%.

Trading ETFs

ETFs hold a basket of investments, like mutual funds, but trade on exchanges like stocks. Here are a few things to keep in mind when trading ETFs:

Pricing

ETFs have two sets of pricing: market price and net asset value (NAV).

Market price

- ETFs are bought and sold on exchanges at the market price. The market price can change throughout the trading day. Factors like supply, demand, and changes in the value of the ETF's investments can affect the market price.
- You can get price quotes any time during the trading day. Quotes have two parts: bid and ask.
- The bid is the highest price a buyer is willing to pay if you want to sell your ETF units. The ask is the lowest price a seller is willing to accept if you want to buy ETF units. The difference between the two is called the "bid-ask spread".
- In general, a smaller bid-ask spread means the ETF is more liquid. That means you are more likely to get the price you expect.

Net asset value (NAV)

- Like mutual funds, ETFs have a NAV. It is calculated after the close of each trading day and reflects the value of an ETF's investments at that point in time.
- NAV is used to calculate financial information for reporting purposes – like returns shown in this document.

Orders

There are two main options for placing trades: market orders and limit orders. A market order lets you buy or sell units at the current market price. A limit order lets you set a price at which you are willing to buy or sell units.

Timing

In general, market prices of ETFs can be more volatile around the start and end of the trading day. Consider using a limit order or placing a trade at another time during the trading day.
